Chapter 9: Cellular Respiration and Fermentation

Chapter 9 Biology Cellular Respiration. Question Answer; What's the definition for fermentation? a partial degradation of sugars that occurs without oxygen. This yields small amounts of ATP. What's the definition of cellular respiration? organic molecules consume oxygen and yield abundant ATP. What's the definition of oxidation? a substance loses electrons, or is oxidized: What's the ...

Free Biology Flashcards about Chapter 9 Biology

At the cellular level, some of the potential energy in sugars is trapped during respiration in the energy carriers ATP and NADH or NADPH, which may move throughout the cell and be used for synthesis and other energy-requiring processes (Fig. 9.2). Respiration also performs another important task in the life of the cell.
